

BROTHERHOOD GIVE BANQUET

Nearly One Hundred Gather
About Festive Board at Presbyterian Church

Appropriate Toasts are Given by the Members of the Brotherhood

It was not a change in spirit, but the awakening to the realization of the crying need of an organization for men in the Presbyterian church which prompted the formation of the Presbyterian Brotherhood, a purely social church organization.

The first important meeting since its inception here was held in the church parlors of the Presbyterian church last night, and a grand meeting it was to be sure. With the right sort of brotherly love, the right temperature of warmth in their greeting, and the true spirit of Christianity manifested throughout the evening.

About ninety members and guests gathered about the festive board, and partook of a feast of oratory and palatable dishes. Over this part of the program came a breath of the President's Thanksgiving proclamation, for turkey headed a menu, which included scalloped oysters, pickles, dressing, gravy, saratoga chips, jellies, cheese straws, baked beans, celery, ice cream, cake and coffee. But for the excellent manner in which the banquet was handled, and culinary arts brought into play to prepare the bountiful spread, let credit be given the "Presbyterian Sisterhood,"—the ladies of the Presbyterian church.

The men assembled in the main auditorium at 7:30 o'clock, marched into the church parlors, where the three long banquet tables were moaning with loads of good eatables. Mrs. Fred Caldwell played an appropriate march on the piano as the men came in to be seated. Rev. T. H. McConnell asked the blessing, after which the entire assemblage joined in singing an old favorite hymn.

Ben. L. Smith was toastmaster, and filled that worthy position with ease, grace and much ability. Mr. Smith is a born toastmaster. He has the frankness, the ready wit and the adequate commanding spirit to do credit both to himself and the speakers that followed. The little bits of humor and clever sarcasm that he interpolated in the regular program was the life of the meeting.

A. T. Martin, president of the local Presbyterian Brotherhood, was the first speaker of the evening, and he responded to the toast, "Individual Power." He reviewed man from the time of Adam to the present day, and declared that never before was there such a call and such an opportunity for the individual as the present time. "Oh! the opportunities of the individual," he said, "how much influence he can exert; how much happiness he can scatter broadcast; how much love he can disseminate, and how much hope he can inspire. Boundless, unlimited, unfathomable power. Men would you embrace your opportunities? If you would, consider their expanse and force, and try if you can to calculate the results. * * * The high tide of civic righteousness is on. Will you take it at its full and sail out into the broad sea of usefulness and helpfulness, or will you flounder about in the shallows of despair and defeat?"

He declared this to be the greatest and most heroic hour of the world's history, the time for marching onward, and the day of individual power.

Rev. McConnell sang a beautiful solo, and poured forth the warmth of a glad heart in a full, clear voice. For he was happy, indeed. It means much to a minister to see an active movement on the part of the laymen in the interest of the church and Christianity. For men in church organizations lend a spirit of Simons of Cyrene, in helping bear the cross of the many duties of the pastorate. And such laymen organizations feeders to the church, and fill the pews on Sunday.

John D. McGee followed with the toast, "Brotherly Love." He reviewed the sad need of more sociability in church work, the absolute necessity of social church organizations. For in carrying on the work of Christianity, as in anything else, he said, men stand in need of human sympathy. Even our Saviour, in a trying hour, craved it of his disciples. When he went into the Garden of Gethsemane, he asked Peter, John and James to accompany him. The life of a church, he declared, was like the life of a person; it is dead without activity, and force spent in the right direction. He was enthusiastic in his praise for the Presbyterian Brotherhood, and said that such an organization would render assistance to each of its members individually and to the church collectively.

Judge W. A. Cullen spoke at some length on the toast, "Loyalty and Fealty." Carefully look over the audience of nearly one hundred men, he remarked, and it was apparent that the church stood in need of such a movement that would bring laymen into the work of the church, and said never before, did he see so many men in the church. He said that the fact that the Presbyterian church in general assembly admitted the necessity of such an organization, and that it struck a responsive chord in the hearts of all throughout the country, and met with universal approval, was enough to prompt men to take an active part in such a movement. He spoke of the achievements of the church in the past, and said he would be proud of the work of the Brotherhood in the future. He boasted of the fact that the Bible is better understood today than ever before, and the spread of the holy gospel, he claimed to be the marvel of all ages. But he deplored the fact that there are nine different Presbyterian and reform churches, which were caused by an unimportant difference on points in theology, but he believed by the step taken by the Brotherhood, which brought men in closer relation with the church, that ultimately, all the different branches of Calvinistic belief would hold precisely the same theology and the same government.

In part, he concluded: "I hallow the day when this great work will be done. And it shall follow on the wave of this Brotherhood, when it is at its crest, then all the churches will be under one banner. No longer will we see the sad, long sanctimonious look on the faces of our brothers in the church, or on the street, but we will greet them with an outstretched hand and a warm heart. The Brotherhood is an absolute necessity in the present condition of the church, and I do not see how we ever got along without it. The women are loyal, they always have been, but the women's zeal is hampered by the indifference of the men."

After another old hymn, suggested by Judge Cullen, Mr. Smith thanked the Brotherhood for the honor bestowed on him in selecting him toastmaster. Mr. Martin then arose to say a concluding word, and he stated that he believed that the Presbyterian church, which had long been alluded to as the kid glove, silk hat, cold church of the world was making a decided change, and one for the better, for he declared that the "Labor Preacher," Charles Tazelle, received a greater ovation at the national convention held in Indianapolis the past week than any man who addressed them. And that the assembly, in convention, adopted resolutions for him to take back to the laboring people of Minneapolis, where he is carrying on his work at the present time. This, Mr. Martin thought, was the climax of the Presbyterian Brotherhood meeting.

John W. Davis is Chosen President, and W. H. McMillin, Vice President

The newly-elected members of the County Council met today at the county auditor's office and effected an organization, as provided by law. All the members were present, and duly qualified, having taken the oath of office during the past week. John W. Davis, of North Harrison street was unanimously elected president of the council, and William H. McMillin, of Union township was selected as vice president.

The council immediately got down to business and approved several estimates of deficiencies in appropriations, including the expense of conducting the election in the eighth and ninth precincts in Rushville township, and other minor claims. The personnel of the new council is Hiram H. Henley, William E. Inlow, John W. Davis, Roila E. Zorne, William H. McMillin, John F. McKee and John A. Cowan.

Rev. L. E. Brown, of Lebanon, will again fill the pulpits at the Main Street Christian church, tomorrow morning. In the evening, Brig. Gen. Cox, of the Salvation Army will speak at the regular services. Other meetings as usual.

MANY DIVORCE SUITS FILED

Rush County Stands Along
With Any of Them in Domestic Infelicity

Judge Spark's Recent Decisions
in "Divorces For a Spell" are Commendable

The divorce evil is becoming an issue in this country at last, and rigid legislation is being talked of. Nearly everyone will admit that the laws in most States are too lax. If people contemplating marriage would stop to consider the full significance of the marriage vows—"What God has joined together let no man put asunder"—and were it not so easy to secure a divorce, they would look on marriage as a serious step, and in many cases would hesitate or at least ponder and study on taking this step, which should be "until death do us part."

Judge Sparks is to be commended in the way he is dealing with the question. In the last few weeks he has granted several divorces, but parties involved are only divorced for a certain period—generally for two years. At the end of that time they are again man and wife. This will, in a way, put a dampener on those parties who seek divorce and have justifiable cause—under the present laws—who are really prompted to gain their freedom in order to marry again, to some one with whom they have become infatuated. This sort of a decision puts a quietus on the "fickle in heart."

Several times, parties who have secured divorces in this county have hurried out of the court room and applied for a marriage license before the ink of the divorce decree was dry. But the last General Assembly put a stop to this farce, this slur on the sacredness of the marriage vow. At present in the Rush county circuit court, there are eleven divorce suits pending. Proof conclusive that while we are the banner county in the matter of raising corn and hogs, we are also "some pumpkin" in our crop of domestic infelicity. Love is blind, and that is probably the reason Cupid takes in so much bad money.

ARE VERY SLOW IN PAYING UP SUBSCRIPTION

Secretary Scudder, of Improvement Association, Says He Hears Many Excuses

When New Castle, a city but little larger than this, can raise $90,000 to secure a factory, the people here should hide their faces in shame, when they think of the arduous task we are having in raising $5000. And even after some people put their names to a subscription list for a measly widow's mite, it is like pulling eye teeth to get them to pay it.

Secretary R. F. Scudder has made repeated requests, both through the papers and to the individuals, but there are a few drowses, who could well afford to pay ten times the amount subscribed, who make all sorts of excuses when it comes to putting up the cash. And money that is no donation or charity by any means, for the few dollars that each man spends in securing a factory for this city, is good investment, and will return ten fold. And it is men that have interests here, and men who will realize the most who are dilatory in keeping faith and their promises to the Improvement Association.

Judge Sparks is to be commended in the way he is dealing with the question. In the last few weeks he has granted several divorces, but parties involved are only divorced for a certain period—generally for two years. At the end of that time they are again man and wife. Nearly everyone is disgusted with the Hinshaw-Freeman case, from one point of view or another, but it seems as if it has barely got a good start. The Greenfield Star, in yesterday's issue says that they will probably add a chapter to the case, dedicated to Hancock county. It says: "There is a possibility that a sequel to the Hinshaw-Freeman case may occur at Greenfield. When Hinshaw and Mrs. Freeman were at Shirley they were within Hancock county. If they violated a civil law of the State of Indiana at Shirley, they were within the jurisdiction of the Hancock county circuit court. It has been suggested to Prosecutor L. Tandall that the case is one appropriate for the investigation of the next grand jury. By subpoenaing hotel keeper Cook who testified before the Governor last week, the necessary evidence could probably be secured.

There is however, a general feeling opposed to such a proceeding in view of the fact that the Freemans have become reconciled and are living together again. For the sake of the children and family it is generally thought that the matter should not be investigated."

GOVERNOR MUST SIGN THE PAPERS

Official Commissions of Many Officers Must be Signed by Executive

Court Auditor Winship has received a circular from Secretary of State Fred A. Sims, of which the following are extracts:

"The laws require that official commissions be signed by the Governor and attested by the Secretary of State."

Judges, prosecuting attorneys, all county offices and that of Justices of the Peace are then signed.

"No officer," the circular continues, "can legally enter upon a second term without renewal of his commission nor can an appointive officer legally discharge such duties without first being commissioned." The fee for a commission is but 60 cents, which goes into the State treasury.

IMPORTANT COURT TRIALS

Are on the Docket for the November Term of Court

Goodrich Bank Case, Amos Will Case and Heim Dam age Suits

At the coming term of court there will be several cases tried which will create a great deal of interest.

The first case on the docket, State of Indiana vs. Horace V. Goodrich, will be closely followed, especially by the citizens of Posey township. The charge against Mr. Goodrich is embezzlement, in connection with the defunct Arlington Bank.

The suit to contest the will of Amanda Mitchell brought by Willard H. Amos et al., will be heard on November 27th. The estate involved is the 160 acre farm of the late Amanda Mitchell, in Noble township, and the personal property left by decedent.

The Heim's damage suit against the Indianapolis & Eastern Traction company, venued here from Hancock county, are unusually large damage suits, as both husband and wife, are demanding $30,000. They allege that they received permanent injuries caused by the traction wire swagging down during a storm, and coming in contact with telephone wire leading to the Heim home. In answering the phone, both Mr. and Mrs. Heim had their hands burned off by the charged telephone wire.

Nearly everyone is disgusted with the Hinshaw-Freeman case, from one point of view or another, but it seems as if it has barely got a good start. The Greenfield Star, in yesterday's issue says that they will probably add a chapter to the case, dedicated to Hancock county. Charles E. Francis, of Cincinnati, accompanied by an architect and his attorney, B. T. Archer, were here last night and awarded the contract for the erection of their wood working factory in this city. Morris Winship & Son were the successful bidders. The building will be built of brick and stone, and will cost approximately $10,000. This is only for one building, their machinery plant. Other buildings will be added as soon as this one is completed.

The factory men have contracted for $10,000 worth of new machinery for their new factory here, which will be used in addition to the old machinery, which they now use in Cincinnati. The Chas. E. Francis & Bro. factory will begin operation here with an expenditure of over $35,000.

Work is being hurried on the railroad switch at the factory site. The contractors are to have the building completed by January 1st.

Those who subscribed money to secure the project are urged to call at Secretary Scudder's office and pay up the same at once.

WILL MAKE MUSIC FOR SKATING RINK

Harry Kramer, proprietor and manager of the new skating rink which is being built in this city, contracted today with Williams & Edgerton to furnish music for the skating rink this season. Paul Williams, of Morristown, will play the piano, and Ralph Edgerton, of this city, will play traps. Music will be furnished each night. Mr. Kramer intends to engage a band or high-class orchestra for the opening night.

RESTAURANT SOLD TO CLEVELAND PARTIES

Half Interest Sold in Peoples' Cafe, and it Will be Removed to Cleveland

Bert Kennedy sold half interest in the restaurant department of the Peoples' Restaurant and Bakery to Cleveland, Ohio parties, this week, and the outfit will be removed to that city Monday. The Cleveland party will look after the restaurant business in Cleveland, and Mr. Kennedy will hereafter devote all of his time to the bakery business exclusively. New bakery fixtures will be installed to replace the cafe fixtures and the Peoples' Bakery will open their wholesale bakery department at once. W. M. Pearce is associated with Mr. Kennedy in the bakery business.

"You hear a great deal about the 'good old times,'" said the venerable citizen, a member in good standing of the Ananias club, at the court house the other day, "but what were the good old times people love to talk about. The times when there were no gas lamps nor electric lights; the good old times when one lit the way to church by lantern in which the candle meekly flickered. The good old times when in early morning the youth had to pull the sapling from the snowy rick to make the kitchen fire. Good old times when there were no daily papers, and no opera houses; when the great orators came no nearer than fifty miles away. Good old days when coal oil was a dollar a gallon and Rockefeller, the philanthropist, was unknown, good old times when there was no furnace, no steam heat, and only one man took his 'annual' in the creek. Good old times when the news was four days old and was ended across the seas before you knew they were going on. Good old days when there were no roads and no taxes, few churches and no police protection, when every man had to fight for his own self-protection; good old times when everybody drank whisky at weddings, funerals, auctions and barn raisings, and it was dipped out of a bucket on the counter at the village stores. Good old days when a man could not get to the State capital except by a long wearisome trip and the next county seat was a day's muddy drive distant. Those may have been the good old days to those who like such times, but they will not do for the live men and women of this day. At this time there are graded schools, churches, places of amusement, great stores, factories, tuppenny markets, own consumers, local independence. People are better than they were; more sober, more rational, more liberal, more peaceful and more happy."

And Out of Town, too, After Having "Pipe Dream" Here

Charles E. Francis, of Cincinnati, accompanied by an architect and his attorney, B. T. Archer, were here last night and awarded the contract for the erection of their wood working factory in this city. Morris Winship & Son were the successful bidders. RUSHVILLE, IND., NOV. 17, 1906

Since candidate Hearst ran considerably behind the ticket in New York, some Democratic papers think his nomination was a grave mistake. That it was a mistake, was maintained by the Republican press from their terms is fixed clearly by law.

The report and recommendations of the experts who examined all the books at the auditor of state's office and the securities deposited there by the life insurance companies of Indiana, is being printed for the benefit of the members of the legislature, who will be asked to enact a number of laws regulating the business. It will be ready for distribution within a few days. Almost without exception the experts found the condition of all the Indiana companies to be good. Several local insurance men said today that the legislature will not do anything to hurt the average man.

At the last election a great many voters disfranchised themselves by staying away from the polls. If these same voters were disfranchised by someone else, there would be a tremendous howl. It is the duty of every voter to go to the polls and express his views in order that the majority rule be expressed in a manner intended in a Republican form of government.

Nearly every county in which there was a clean election during the late campaign, reports that the plan worked well and are satisfied with it. There is nothing that has occurred in the history of political campaigning that is more creditable than this effort to insure clean elections, and both parties would do well to perpetuate the anti-corruption agreements.

Here is something to ponder over. Dr. Forbes Winslow, an eminent English alienist says that according to statistical figures on insanity it can be shown that before long there will be actually more lunatics in the world than sane people. That there is some truth in this statement may be inferred from the fact that as fast as this State builds new insane asylums they fill up; and it is difficult to find accommodation for all the patients. Not many years ago the State asylum at Indianapolis held all the insane of the State. The burning problem of the day is how to prevent this increase of insanity. What is the use of wasting time and energy on education when we have before us this absorbing problem, the contemplation of an insane world, to deal with?

A jury in the circuit court found Speece not guilty of murder when he shot and killed Robertson, who was an unmarried man thirty years old, who had invaded Speece's home during his absence.

removal by Governor Hanly created a great sensation. Shortly after his removal similar charges were made against Secretary of State Storms, who was also compelled to resign. Then began the "house-cleaning" campaign that became one of the issues of the recent campaign and the cause for the public demand for a law prohibiting officials of the public from using the funds entrusted to them. W. S. Wickard of this city was indicted jointly with Sherrick on the charge of conspiring with him to commit embezzlement, but he has never been brought to trial. His attorneys say that the decision of the supreme court will end the prosecution of their client.

Senator John W. Parks of Plymouth will go after the cigarette trust again at the coming session of the legislature. While here today he stated that he will introduce another bill for the prevention of cigarette smoking in Indiana. Senator Parks was the author of the drastic cigarette bill which became a law last session and which caused such a furore for a short time. The supreme court has held that the provision against adults smoking cigarettes was unconstitutional, but Senator Parks is going to try it again. He is sure there will be a way to prevent cigarette smoking. A part of his law prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in Indiana still stands, but it is not being as rigidly enforced as it was several months ago.

Judge Fremont Alford of the criminal court has decided to resist the demand of James A. Pritchard, judge-elect, for his office. Mr. Pritchard, acting according to an opinion delivered by Attorney General Miller, claims that Judge Alford's term expired today. Judge Alford insists that Mr. Miller's opinion is incorrect and is not binding. He believes that under the law of 1903 he is entitled to serve until Jan. 1, 1907, but Mr. Miller had declared that law unconstitutional. Mr. Miller said today that his opinion does not refer to the time other officers than judge and clerk of the courts shall take office, as their terms are fixed clearly by law.

It was learned today that the private bankers have about decided not to attempt to oppose the enactment of a law providing for supervision of their institutions by the state. It is said that they realize that public sentiment is in favor of such a law, and they will join hands with the legislature and try to have a law enacted that will be fair to all sides.

THE CULEBRA CUT

Came In For Critical Inspection
by President Roosevelt.

HE WANTED TO KNOW

Few Details of Great Canal Construction Escaped the Eagle Eye of the Boss of the Job.

"We Will Do Our Best to Help You Build It," Said Workmen's Banner.

Panama, Nov. 17.—President Roosevelt, with Mrs. Roosevelt and the other members of his party, made a close examination of the Culebra cut. When the presidential train arrived at Pedro Miguel, where some steam shovels were at work, the president had his train stopped for the purpose of making a personal examination. President Roosevelt descended from his train and climbed upon one of the steam shovels, taking a seat alongside Engineer Gray, whom he subjected to a searching fire of questions regarding the work. During his conversation with Engineer Gray took the opportunity, on behalf of himself and the other engineers, to declare that, unlike the railroad engineers, they were not paid for overtime. The president promised to look into this matter. He stayed on the steam shovel about twenty minutes. By this time it was raining hard.

President Roosevelt told Chief Engineer Stevens that he wanted to see all the works in connection with excavation, even to the temporary laying of tracks. With this in view he boarded a work-train near Pedro Miguel and went on to the next point where steam shovels were at work. Here there was no danger of landslides. The presidential train continued on the regular line toward Panama. The work of the second steam shovels was observed and the president made a detour to examine the site of the Pedro Miguel lock. He shook hands with all the Americans he met while walking over the ground.

When the president entered the deep portion of Culebra cut his train moved slowly in order that he might observe the workings of the drill machinery and shovels. One shovel was decorated with a sign reading: "We will do our best to help you build it." The president spent some time in the deepest portion of the cut, where last Sunday twenty-two tons of explosives were used to throw down 35,000 cubic yards of material.

Several charges of dynamite were exploded in order that the president might see the effect, after which he went back to his train.

attached to these proceedings on account of the indictments for conspiracy in connection with alleged extortion from local French restaurants that were found against Mayor Schmitz and "Boss" Ruef Thursday. It is understood that the grand juries are giving their attention to the charge that extortion was practiced on O'Farrell's resort that flourished before the fire.

In connection with his investigation into alleged graft here, Assistant District Attorney Heney said: "What we have already done is only a start. We expect that there will be other indictments before we finish. All that I now ask is fair juries to try the cases."

Court Repulses Ruef.

San Francisco, Nov. 17.—Judge Sewell has decided that Abraham Ruef has no legal right to the office of district attorney, to which he was appointed by Acting Mayor Gallagher after the board of supervisors had pretended to suspend W. H. Langdon. The court's opinion was oral. He said: "I am clearly of the opinion that conditions of this character do not apply to the district attorney's office and that the mayor and supervisors have no power of removal in regard to that office."

The president spent some time in the deepest portion of the cut, where last Sunday twenty-two tons of explosives were used to throw down 35,000 cubic yards of material.

GIVEN A NEW TRIAL

Supreme Court of the State
Rules In the Sherrick Case.

PRISON GATE OPENED

Former Auditor of State Will Be Free Under Bond Pending New Hearing of His Cause.

Lower Court Reversed On Ground
That Money Used by Sherrick
Was Not State Funds.

Indianapolis, Nov. 17.—David E. Sherrick, former auditor of state, now serving a sentence on a charge of embezzlement of state funds, will have a new trial.

The Indiana supreme court has handed down a decision on his appeal reversing the decision of the criminal court of Marion county and setting aside the verdict of the jury, and granting a retrial to the man convicted by that jury. Sherrick was sentenced to serve from two to twenty-one years.

The supreme court held that the auditor of state is not an officer who, under the law, can properly accept money from tax payers or from fee payers; that such money should go directly to the treasury, through the hands of the treasurer of state. It is the decision that under the law the former auditor of state could not be held liable for using the money thus mistakenly turned into his hands.

The contention of the prosecution was that the money that had been paid to Sherrick by the insurance companies belonged to the state as soon as he received it from them under color of his office, and that when he failed to turn it into the state treasury he was guilty of embezzlement from the state. On this theory of the case Sherrick was convicted, but the supreme court reverses the judgment on the ground that while Sherrick had the money in his possession he held it merely as agent for the companies.

As soon as the decision was handed down the clerk of the supreme court issued an order to the warden of the Michigan City penitentiary to return Sherrick to the custody of the sheriff of Marion county. Sherrick will be returned to this city today in the custody of a prison guard. He will then be turned over to the sheriff and will probably be released on bond to await the further action of the Marion county criminal court.

Then it will be up to the prosecutor to say what the future action will be. If he thinks that he will still be able to obtain a conviction at a retrial, in view of the supreme court's decision, he will ask that the case be set down for trial again. If he feels that he would not be able to get a conviction he may move to nol pros the case. In the latter event Sherrick would gain his liberty.

ON ITS ROUNDS

Legislative Committee Visiting State Institutions.

Indianapolis, Nov. 17.—The legislative visitation committee appointed by Governor Hanly has begun its pilgrimage, making its first stop at Lafayette, to inspect the soldiers' home and Purdue university. Next week it will visit the northern hospital for the insane at Logansport; the school for feeble-minded at Fort Wayne; the eastern hospital for the insane at Richmond, and the soldiers' and sailors' orphans' home at Knightstown. The commission has about forty days in which to visit all the institutions and prepare its report to the legislature.

Rockville Bank Burned.

Rockville, Ind., Nov. 17.—The three-story building owned and occupied by the Rockville National bank, was destroyed by fire. The citizens fought desperately to confine the flames to the one building. Rockville has no fire-fighting apparatus, and the bucket brigade was the only thing at command. The losses to building and to the several tenants aggregate more than $25,000. The vault containing the books and papers appears to be uninjured, but it cannot be opened for several days.

Milledgeville, Ga., Nov. 17.—With the fury of a tiger, Mims Devereaux, a negro, fought the sheriff and his deputy, who entered his cell to escort him to the scaffold. After a hard fight the negro was overpowered and was later hanged. Previously he had tried unsuccessfully to kill himself with a broken glass bottle. Devereaux was convicted of killing another negro in a card game.

Negro Troopers Dismissed.
Fort Reno, Okla., Nov. 17.—The discharge of the three companies of negro troops from Brownsville, Tex., began here today. Major Wallace of Fort Sam Houston is acting as paymaster. The final orders have been received from Washington and all details made ready for the dismissal of the discharged troopers as they are paid off.

Pittsburg's Reign of Terror.
Pittsburg, Nov. 17.—While detectives are still hunting for the murderers of Harry F. Smith and James A. McMillen, who were victims of thugs last week and with the sections of the city where holdups have been most frequent fairly swarming with policemen and plain-clothes officers, reports of robberies and burglaries continue to be made public.

Crisis of Flood Passed.
Kalama, Wash., Nov. 17.—Reports from the Cowlitz river district indicate that the crisis of the flood situation has passed and the waters which swept the river clean of all shingle and lumber interests, inundated the surrounding territory and flooded several towns, driving the people to the hills, are beginning to subside.

Curious Bet That Shows an Impossible Way of Smoking

"As a matter of fact, he gives away a good many, but is firm in his belief that he smokes more cigars than any other man in Rushville.
